Such rating may not be representative of any one client’s experience. Boston Business Journal (BBJ) - Largest Independent Investment Advisers in Massachusetts 2021

Firms are considered for BBJ’s annual list of 25 “Largest Independent Investment Advisers in Massachusetts” by submitting a survey to BBJ that includes total assets under management. Working with a firm on this list does not guarantee future investment success, nor is there any guarantee that GW & Wade will receive this recognition in the future. GW & Wade did not pay a fee to participate in this survey. GW & Wade’s appearance on this list is not indicative of the Firm’s future performance nor is it representative of any one client’s experience at GW & Wade.

BBJ ranks Independent Investment Advisers in Massachusetts on their list by total assets under management among Massachusetts-based advisers as of 6/1/21. BBJ does not publicize the number of companies that were considered and therefore it is assumed 25 firms were considered (although this number may be larger).

GW & Wade stated on the survey provided to BBJ that it is a subsidiary of Focus Financial Partners, LLC, which is headquartered in the state of New York. GW & Wade, LLC’s corporate headquarters are located in Massachusetts and firm operations are managed by GW & Wade principals.

The Chief Compliance Officer has reviewed the above information and has determined that the award or ranking is not designed to produce a predetermined result and that the survey makes it equally easy for participants to provide both positive and negative responses.

Financial Advisor Magazine - Ranking of Independent Advisory Firms by Assets Under Management 2021

To be eligible for the ranking, firms must be independent registered investment advisors, file their own ADV statement with the SEC, provide financial planning and related services to individual clients and submit an annual survey to Financial Advisor Magazine. The ranking is based on assets under management (AUM) at year-end. The ranking orders firms from largest to smallest, based on AUM reported to Financial Advisor Magazine by firms that voluntarily complete and submit a survey by the required deadline. Financial Advisor Magazine endeavors to verify AUM by reviewing ADV forms.

This ranking may not be representative of any one client's experience at GW & Wade, as this ranking is purely based on AUM. This ranking is not indicative of GW & Wade's future performance. In 2021, the survey was completed by 607 firms and all 607 firms were included in the online expanded version. In print, 433 firms were included in the survey. GW & Wade did not pay a fee to participate in these rankings.

The Chief Compliance Officer has reviewed the above information and has determined that the award or ranking is not designed to produce a predetermined result and that the survey makes it equally easy for participants to provide both positive and negative responses.

Citywire 50 Growers Across America 2022

Note From Citywire regarding the ranking methodology: We use only publicly reported numbers, which are helpfully compiled for us by Discovery Data. Only firms that report having a significant number of financial planning clients were considered, since we wanted to make sure we were only considering financial planning-oriented RIAs and not money managers. We've also limited our universe to RIAs that are not affiliated on a firm level with a brokerdealer or other institution (though their employees may be dually registered). Finally, we've endeavored to remove RIAs whose assets under management aren't truly 'theirs.' This is admittedly a bit qualitative, but we did our best to strike companies that are primarily back-end service providers rather than client-facing planners. Once we'd done all that, we looked at growth in 2021 across three categories: percentage growth in AUM, monetary growth in AUM, and percentage growth in employees. Combining these into a single numerical measure of growth, we generated the list you see here. Does that mean that these 131 RIAs are the fastest-growing independent planners in America? Absolutely not! Our list is a bit unusual in that it's broken down by state, which helps us highlight some under-the-radar stars, but also means that RIAs in the richest and most populous states must contend with far stiffer competition. As an illustration of how 'unfair' our method is, consider that our starting dataset contained fewer than 30 firms each from Alaska, North Dakota and West Virginia, while New York and Texas boasted about 1,500, and California presented us with 3,246. But of course, the whole goal of the project is to find out who's performing best in each given market – and also to find some truly interesting and successful firms that haven't yet attained national recognition

Barron's Top 1,200 Financial Advisors 2022 (Debra Brede)

Advisors who wish to be ranked fill out a 102-question survey about their practice. Barron's verifies that data with the advisors' firms and with regulatory databases and applies their rankings formula to the data to generate a ranking. The formula features three major categories of calculations: (1) Assets (2) Revenue (3) Quality of practice. In each of those categories Barron's does multiple subcalculations. For instance, Barron's takes into account not just the amount of assets an advisor manages, but also the type of assets—are they private-wealth assets or institutional? If they're institutional, are they for a foundation or an endowment, or are they corporate assets? Barron's measures the growth of advisors' practices and their client retention. They also consider a wide range of qualitative factors, including the advisors' experience, their advanced degrees and industry designations, the size, shape, and diversity of their teams, their charitable and philanthropic work and, of course, their compliance records. 6,186 advisors submitted applications for the 2022 Top 1,200 Advisors ranking, of which 19% made it onto the ranking. No fee was paid by Debra Brede or GW & Wade for this award.

Barron's Top 100 Women Financial Advisors 2022 (Debra Brede)

Barron's bases its ratings on a proprietary analysis of the following qualitative and quantitative criteria: a minimum of 7 years of financial services experience, acceptable compliance record, client retention, assets under management (AUM), revenues generated, and the quality of the advisor's practice. A portion of the ranking considers a sampling of a financial advisor's clients. Please note that this is not representative of any one client's experience. Barron's does not provide a count of eligible nominees for the award, citing its data as proprietary. Investment performance is not a criterion.

Barron's Top Independent Advisors 2020 (Debra Brede)

The rankings are based on assets under management, revenues generated by advisors for their firms, and the quality of the advisors' practices. Investment performance isn't an explicit criterion because performance is often a function of each client's appetite for risk. In evaluating advisors, Barron's examines regulatory records, internal company documents, and 100-plus points of data provided by the advisors themselves. Barron's does not provide a count of eligible nominees for the award, citing their data as proprietary. This award is not indicative of the wealth manager's future performance. Your experience may vary. Barron's 2019 Hall of Fame Advisors recognizes advisors who have ranked for ten or more years on any one of following Barron's Top Advisor lists: Top 100 Financial Advisors, Barron's Top Women Financial Advisors, or Top 100 Independent Advisors.

FT 400 Financial Advisors 2020 (Debra Brede)

For the FT 400 Financial Advisors 2020 list: The Financial Times and Ignites Research, the FT's sister company, contacted the largest US brokerages in autumn 2019 to obtain practice information and data for their top advisers across the US. Financial Times evaluated nominees on 6 primary areas and calculated a numeric score for each advisor. The areas of consideration were AUM, asset growth, compliance record, experience, credentials, and accessibility. Among the top factors in the scoring, assets under management accounted for an average of 70 percent of each adviser's score. Also, AUM growth rate (examined over a three-year period to June 30 2019, to emphasize long-term performance) accounted for an average of 18 percent. The FT also places a cap on the number of advisers from any one state that corresponds to the distribution of millionaires across the US. In 2020, approximately 940 applicants were considered and 400 (42.6% of candidates) were recognized. The 2014 FT 100 Women Advisors list uses similar criteria as the FT 400; 415 qualified applications were received, of which 24% were recognized. For the full methodologies, please visit www.ft.com.
